It thus appears that the same white population the six South Atlantic States linve more than double as many churches and two-thirds as many more church-sittings as the six New England States. It may be said that the New England States have large foreign population; last this is mostly Catholie, and noted for the liberality with which it builds and equips clinrelies. It may be further said that many freedmen churches have been bailt South since the war by Northern contributions; but the increase in Southern churches in 1870 over 1860 is 1,296, and leaving these out of the question entirely the 3,450,000 white people in the six South Atlantic States have still 10,271 churches to 5,421 to the 3, 150,000 white people of the six

CONGRESSIONAL DUELS.

It was during the administration of Mr. Monroe that a collision occurred in the Senate between General Samuel Smith of Maryland, and Mr. Lloyd, of And forms that were lost in the long ago Massachusetts, the result of which gave much satisfaction at the North. General Smith was a known fighting man, a brave soldier, who had rendered important service in the war of 1812. He was a large, imposing figure of a man, of peremptory manner, and rather inclined to be dietatorial and overbearing. I know she will come with the twilight gray Mr. Lloyd, on the contrary, was small in statue, delicate and almost effeminate in appearance, dressing always in elegant style, and looking like a courtier Ah, Miriam Claire! with thy golden hair, of the days of Louis XIV. "Mr. President, I am not acquainted with the sentiments of my State upon what the Senator calls the doctrine of personal responsibility. I recognize this doctrine to its fullest extent, and nin prepared to be held responsible in any way for every word I utter on this floor. Furthermore, Sir, in order to prevent any misconception hereafter, I give the Senator from Maryland to know that I shall hold him responsible for every word he speaks derogatory to my character or injurious to my feel-

General Smith made no rejoinder, and the flurry passed, but it was observed thereafter that there was a studied conrtesy in the bearing of all the fireeaters toward Mr. Lloyd.

The last futal Congressional duel was that in which poor Cilley lost his life. The quarrel was a political one, and Cilley was a sacrifice to the rancor of party strife. There was no personal animosity on the part of the antigonists. They fought with ritles, at forty paces. Cilley was an expert shot with blowing fresh as the parties took their ground, and the fatal shot was a chance one altogether. Cillev was a brave man, but he could not control lcs nerves. On the first fire his ball struck the ground not more than furty feet off. Graves was perfectly cool and collected. and at the third shot Cilley fell, mortidly wounded. Henry A, Wise accompanied Graves to the field, and General

ley. They were much censured for allowing more than one shot, the difficulty being a technical one only; but the fact is, they went on the ground tied up by an agreement made by the great lenders of the two political parties from which they did not feel themselves at liberty to deviate. Their fatal mistake consisted in accepting the conditions by which the combat was to be governed. Cilley died on the field, but his fate was preferable to that of Graves, who lingered a few years a melancholy wreck, wasting away the remainder of his life in remorse and misery.—Harper's.

which is due to merit alone. We can assure our old patrons that it is kept fully up to its high standard; and it is the only reliable and perfected preparation for restoring Gray on Faden Harn to its youthful color, making it soft, lustrous, and silken. The scalp, by its use, becomes white and clean. It removes all cruptions and dandruff, and, by its tonic properties, prevents the hair from falling out, as it stimulates and nourishes the hair-glands. By its use, the hair grows thicker and stronger. In baldness, it restores the capillary glands to their normal vigor, and will create a new growth except in extreme old age. It is the most economical Ham Duessing ever used, as it requires fewer applications, and gives the hair a splendid, glossy penrance. A. A. Haves, M.D., "The constituents are pure, and care- Liquois.
